American Citizen. His career of glory through life was unstained by crime; and his death was felt as a loss, by every individual of that community, whose political existence was the fruit of his exertions.

THE FAREWELL ADDRESS of General Washington is the condensed result of long experienced, matured reflection and strong anxiety for the permanent prosperity of his country. His advice concerning the great importance of maintaining indissolubly the federal Union: the danger of indulging too much in party feelings:—the necessity of supporting public credit at home:—of maintaining public faith in all our transactions with foreign nations: of encouraging foreign intercourse free from foreign attachments:—are so many lessons of prudence which we should do well to bear in constant remembrance. Why therefore should not his legacy of wisdom and affection, be so published, as to admit of being constantly before our eyes? An ornament to our apartments, while it serves as a memento to guide our public feelings, and to manifest that the author lives in our memories?

To make it such, s the aim of the proposed Edition.

The Publishers are determined that the Address shall be printed on paper of the same quality and size as the splendid edition of the Declaration of Independence now engraving, & shall in all respects be a companion worthy that great State paper.

As errors are known from various causes to find their way into the most important writings, the publishers feel it their duty, not only to satisfy themselves, but to satisfy the public, of the authenticity of the copy from which this splendid Edition of the Farewell Address shall be published.

MR. GEORGE BRIDPORT will complete the Design; of which the following is an outline:—The introductory part of the Address, in highly finished ornamental penmunship, shall form the upper part;—the other parts of the plate, shall be appropriate ornaments;—in the centre below shall be engraved, from an historical design for this publication by Mr. Sully the Surrender of the British Army at York-town, October 19, 1781.

The Address itself shall be printed with type of a peculiar and appropriate character, designed for this purpose by Mr. Fairman, and to be cut and cast by our best artists. No more of the type shall be cast than will be necessary to execute this Address: & when it shall be compleated, the type and the matrices in which it was cast shall be utterly destroyed; so that no other work shall ever be executed by the same letter which shall have printed the "FAREWELL ADDRESS" of him who lived and died, first in War; first in Peace, and first in the hearts of his Countrymen.

The paper, of the first quality, 36 by 26 inches, will be made by MR. AMIES. The INK shall be carefully prepared, and of the best materials.

The signature of General Washington from which it is proposed to execute a fac simile for this publication, is that which he affixed to the Constitution of the United States, when he signed it as President of the Convention in which it was framed; Thus associating and concentrating some of the greatest events in the life of this great man and in the history of his Country.

The ornamental writing will be designed and executed in the very best manner; the ornamental parts of the design and vignette, will be engraved by G. FAIRMAN: and the Typographical part executed by John Binns. They will take especial care of the execution of their several duties in this respect, and they will call to their aid, all that liberality, zeal and industry can command from the Sciences and Arts, so as to make the "Farewell Address" no mean specimen of the state of the Fine Arts in the United States.

As much progress has already been made in designing and procuring materials for this splended edition of Gen. Washington's "Farewell Address," it is expected it will be ready for delivery, with the Splended Edition of the Declaration of Independence, in the month of December next. That the public may have a more perfect view of the design and style of execution, than can be given in a proposal, of this Tribute to the memory of him who was "a Conqueror for the Freedom of his Country! A "Legislator for its Security! A magistrate for its Happiness," it is not intended to solicit any Subscriptions until the Ornamental parts of the plate shall be executed. It will then be submitted for public inspection and public patronage, at five dollars a Copy, payable on the delivery of the Engraving. Philadelphia, July 31.

Exchange & Broker's Office,

Georgetown, District of Columbia.

ROMULUS RIGGS,

AT his office, next door below Crawford's tavern, Bridge-st. Georgetown, will exchange all kinds of Bank Notes on the most reasonable terms.—All persons who may have notes on the banks of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, would do well to call on him, as he is largely in the purchase of that kind of money, and will take it on the most reasonable terms.—Persons travelling to the Western Country may at all times get the Bank Notes of the Western Banks at a fair discount, by calling at his Office. For the information of all persons throughout the U. States, R. Riggs makes it known, that all of the Banks of the District of Columbia pay their notes on demand in specie; and it would be much to the advantage of the merchants, and trading to the South and west, to encourage the circulation of the Notes of the Banks of Georgetown, Washington and Alexandria, as it will at all times answer for remittances to the large commercial and Atlantic towns;—all persons emigrating or travelling to the westward should be very particular and take the Notes of the Banks of the District of Columbia, as they will find them the most current, there being no counterfeits on the District Banks. The Merchants' Bank of Alexandria has long since failed—all persons should be on their guard, as they will be imposed on. August 13

Baltimore Hospital,

24th August, 1818.

THE board of visitors have much pleasure in announcing to the public, that within the last eighteen months, a large and elegant addition has been made to this valuable institution, in the erection of the East wing of the building. This wing is 152 feet in length and 36 in width, with an extensive Southern projection at its extreme East end. It contains between 30 and 40 apartments, admirably calculated for the accommodation of every class of patients. Of this number are several large and airy wards, intended particularly for the reception of seamen, and well adapted to their various diseases. These different rooms and wards will be warmed by open fires, and by heated air thrown into them, from furnaces constructed on a safe and improved plan. Arrangements will also soon be made, for lighting the apartments in the entire building, with gas.

The unwearied exertions of Doctors Mackenzie and Smyth, the attending Physicians of the Hospital, in their attention to the construction of the building, and their care of the sick, have given a character to this Institution, which is now inferior to none in the United States. In the short space of six years, a most noble establishment has been erected—a thing without parallel in this country. It is well known, that above half a century has been consumed, in bringing the Hospitals of New-York and Philadelphia to their present size, and it is admitted by many gentlemen, who have visited these institutions, that the Hospital here, is by far the most extensive; the whole building being now 360 feet in length.

The daily increase of the sick in the Hospital, renders it absolutely necessary that the new wing should be furnished; and every exertion is now making, to have it completed, before the cold weather shall set in.

The visitors at their late meeting, examined the Institution with much care—the apartments of the sick in the private infirmary—those in the lunatick asylum—and the wards of the sick and disabled seamen in the Marine Hospital—and they assert with confidence, that the sick and afflicted of every description are well accommodated and carefully attended. They have seen at their different meetings, the private patient comfortable: the wretched marine humanely taken care of; and the sailor, disabled by age, wounds and sickness, well provided with suitable medical assistance, and with every other comfort which his condition may require. Indeed the agreeable situation in which this very useful class of men are placed, does much credit, as well to the Director of the Marine Hospital, as to the attending Physicians, to whose immediate care they are entrusted. Every praise too, which the visitors can bestow, is due to Mr. & Mrs. Gatchel, the Steward and Matron of the Hospital, for the neat and clean manner in which the House is uniformly kept, and for their care and attention to the administration of the internal economy of the establishment.

Before they conclude this account of the Hospital, the visitors would invite the attention of their fellow citizens throughout the United States, to the Anatomical Cabinet of Wax Preparations, by Chiappi, which certainly far surpasses any thing of the kind ever exhibited in this country; and will afford to those whose curiosity may lead them to see how "fearfully and wonderfully they are made," but more especially to the medical student, a fund of useful information.

The Hospital is under the care of the following medical gentlemen:

Doctors Colin Mackenzie } Attending
James Smyth } Physicians.
Dr. Horatio Gates Jameson, Atten'g Surg.
Doctors George Brown, John Coulter, John Campbell White, Solomon Birkhead, John Cromwell, Peter Chatard, Ashton Alexander, John Owen, William Donaldson } Consulting Physicians.

ABSCONDED from the subscriber's service, on Saturday night the 15th inst. Negro woman TREACE or TREACY—she is five feet two or three inches high, about 30 years of age, of a very dark complexion, and when particularly examined is very apt to confound herself.—It is deemed unnecessary to mention her clothing, as she has all of them with her, and being extremely artful, she no doubt will change them and endeavor to pass for a free woman. She is well acquainted in Charles county, Prince George's, Alexandria and the City, as about 3 years ago she made her escape, and was 6 or 7 months about the Lower Ferry, leading to Alexandria, and from thence to Washington City, where she acquired an extensive acquaintance among the Negroes belonging to John Brent, esq.; and the greater part of said Negroes belong now to William and Rober Brent, esqrs. and Mr. Dudley Diggs. Negro Treace has a scar on the back part of her neck, occasioned by a seaton put for the benefit of her eyes, which are very weak at this time. I will give 10 dollars if taken in the county and secured in jail, or if out of the county and secured as aforesaid, so that I get her again, 25 dollars, and all reasonable charges paid if brought home. All persons are forewarned harboring or employing said Negro at their peril, as the law will be rigorously put in force against any offender.

FIFTY DOLLARS REWARD.

I WILL give the above reward for apprehending and lodging in any jail in the District of Columbia, a person by the name of JOHN POST, a Bricklayer and Stonemason, who has been at work for about two months past at Fort Washington, and was discharged on the 7th of September inst.—He says he was born in the state of New-York; is about 5 feet 9 or 10 inches high, and has sandy hair: he had with him an apprentice boy, nearly grown. A few days previous to his leaving Fort Washington he took the liberty of borrowing, in the name of Mr. John Cohagen, from a lady at that place 15 dollars, which was not known till after he left it; and immediately after he was discharged and paid off, he forged two checks in the name of the Subscriber, on the Farmers' Bank of Alexandria, one of which he procured the money for at the Bank, and the other he passed to a person in Alexandria, which was detected and refused.—Previous to his coming to Fort Washington, he worked in the City of Washington, where he said he intended to work again, but it is probable he has not stopped so near the theatre of his villany.

Persons are cautioned against being imposed on by him. BOLITHA LAWS.

The nectar sparkles; see it swim
Around the gen'rous goblet's brim;
Its flush is fair—its taste we'll prove,
And then, all glowing, talk of love.

What, pretty nymph, do you decline
The luscious feast of love and wine?
A frown too!—No, 'tis all deceit,
For frowns and wine can never meet.

Light up a smile, then, oh! sweet bliss!
We'll kiss and drink, and drink and kiss,
Till blithsome love shall laugh to see
His vot'ries drown'd in ecstacy.

COSMAS.

Original Miscellany.

What does one dog owe to another—one horse to another—one hog to another?—Even nothing—in short, no animal, though we call it rational, owes any thing to its fellow. But man, partaking of that spark which we call reason—what are the fruits of his rationality? Why, to be a slave and an enslaver every where throughout the earth.

Were this earth what it apparently should be—that is, did man every where meet with a safe, easy and certain subsistence, and a climate suitable to his feelings, it is evident that no one could possibly enslave another. When this earth shall every where produce salubrious fruits—when the air which should contribute to life, shall no more bring sickness or death—when man shall no longer stand in need of any other lodging and bed than those of the deer and the leopard, the lords of the world will have no other domestics than their children, and these will have so much natural affection as to assist them in their old age.

In this state, so very natural, which all quadrupeds, birds, and reptiles enjoy, man would be as happy as they: dominion would then be a chimæra to him, an absurdity which no one would think of; for who would make a bustle to get servants without any want of their services?—Should any individual of a tyrannical disposition and extraordinary strength, take it into his head to make a slave of his weaker neighbour, the thing would be impracticable; the party oppressed would be an hundred leagues out of the oppressor's reach before he had taken his measures. Thus a freedom from want would make all men equal. It is the distress annexed to our condition as rational beings, which subjects one man to another. Not that inequality is in itself a real misfortune—the grievance lies in dependance—It is of no consequence that one man is styled his highness or another his holiness—but to serve either, and be obedient to them, is the evil.

A numerous family has successfully cultivated a good soil, whilst two small neighboring families cannot bring their stubborn grounds to produce any thing: the two poor families must either become servants to the opulent family, or extirpate it. One of the two indigent families, for a subsistence, goes and offers its labor to the rich; the other goes to dispossess it by force of arms, and is beaten. The former is the origin of domestics and laborers, and from the latter slavery is derived.

In our calamitous globe, it is impossible that men, living together in society, should not be divided into two classes—one, the rich, who command; the other, the poor, who serve or obey; these two are subdivided into thousands, and these thousands have their further subdivisions and gradations.

The oppressed are not all absolutely unhappy.—Most of them being born under a servile state, continual labor preserves them from a too sensible feeling of their situation; but whenever they do feel it, wars are the consequence:—such were those between the plebeian and patrician parties in Rome, and those of the peasants, in Germany, England and France. All these terminate, soon or late, in the subjection of the people, because the great have money, and money can do every thing within a state; for between nation and nation it is otherwise. A nation which handles iron best, will ever be too strong for one, which, with its abundance of gold, is deficient in skill and courage.

Every man is born with a strong propensity to power, riches and pleasure, and naturally delights in indolence: consequently every man is for having the money and daughters of others; would subject them to all his humors, and do no work—at least only what pleased himself. For men with such dispositions to be equal, is as impossible as that two rival professors in callings of great fame and emolument, should not be jealous of each other.

Mankind cannot, in the present state of the world, subsist, unless an infinity of useful men have the misfortune to be without any possession whatever. No man in easy circumstances will dig your garden, or plough your grounds; and if you are in want of a pair of shoes, you must find some other hand than a judge, or a general, or a rich planter, to make them for you—Even a member of Congress, whatever he might have done before his election, would turn up his nose at a proposition to heel piece your shoes or seat your small clothes. Thus inequality is, at the same time, both the most natural and the most chimerical thing in the world.

Every man has a right to fancy himself, if he can, equal to other men; but it does not follow from thence that a cardinal's cook may order his eminence to dress his dinner. The cook indeed may say, I am as much a man as my master; like him, I squalled at my birth, and he will die with pretty nearly the same agonies as I shall—but still the dinner will be dressed by him, and be devoured by his eminence.—While he is tossing his stew-pans and sauce-pans in the kitchen, he may gratify himself with saying, "Now if the Turks should make themselves masters of Rome, and I then come to be cardinal, and my master reduced to turn cook, I will certainly take him into my service," and there would be nothing unjust in the soliloquy—but still the inequality would continue to subsist, for one would still be master, and the other servant, and until the grand seignor makes himself master of Rome, the cook must do his duty or perish for want.

As to those poor gentlemen who worry themselves with endeavours to prove the equality of all men, while they are neither capable of cooking for a cardinal, nor of doing any thing but consuming food—who without capacity for any useful office—without connexion, dependance or pretension, talk big and assume to be chagrined at being received every where either with an air of protection or contempt; and who while they live by the Monseigneurs of the world, and without them could not sustain life, express their mortification that those by whom they exist have neither more learning, more genius, nor more virtue than themselves—their case is emphatically miserable, having no other alternative left but to endure, for life, what gives them so much uneasiness, or to take themselves away, in the best manner they can.

It appears from the returns from the district composed of the City and County of Philadelphia, and the County of Delaware, that John Sergeant, Joseph Hemphill, Samuel Edwards and Thomas Forrest, are elected to Congress.

From the New-York Daily Advertiser.

Extract of a letter from an American, dated Lisbon, January 1, 1818.

I arrived here last November, over land, from Gibraltar, via Cadiz and Seville, from which last place I travelled on foot to Lisbon, passing through a country, renowned in ancient and modern history for many a battle fought and won.

I embarked on the Gaudalquiver from San Lucar, on board the steam boat, or as the Spaniards call it, 'La Vapor,' which was established by the Marquis Da Casa Yrujo, formerly Spanish Minister to the U. States, who married an American lady, daughter of Gov. M'Kean of Pennsylvania. It has been running since last July. The Marquis happened to be on board the boat, bound for Seville; he was very polite, and treated me with much attention, devoting much of his time, after our arrival in Seville, to showing me the curiosities &c. of that famous city, many of which I could not have seen but for him. Among the rest, the grand archives of the Indies, contained in a building whose rooms are of immense size, with curious marble floors and pillars. The archives occupy three rooms, and are contained in beautiful mahogany cases, (I do not know what else to call them,) which reach from the floor to the ceiling, separated into different compartments, in which all papers relating to American affairs, since the discovery by Columbus, are arranged and labelled in the neatest manner you can conceive. So voluminous are those papers, among which are Columbus's, Cortes's, Pizarro's, &c. letters, that nearly all the compartments throughout this great building are filled; and should the South Americans achieve their independence, such has been the policy pursued by Old Spain, they would be obliged to send to Seville, for all proofs of title, inheritance, &c.

The great cathedral is a venerable Gothic building. Its windows are all of painted glass, which art is said to be lost, and its organs, reaching almost to the dome, are of the most exquisite stone and marble, and rows of massy pillars support its dome running throughout the building. Its spire, (I do not know what else to call it, for I am unacquainted with names in architecture,) is square, and can be, and often is, ascended on jackasses—the ascent being an inclined plane, winding round the inside of the spire, about 700 feet. Through the great aisle to the opposite entrance, is about 850 feet, and it is about 2700 feet in compass. The performance of high mass is most sublime and impressive—the peals from the organ are like 10,000 voices. The grand altar is superb; and the sides of the whole building are covered with paintings, and the niches filled with statues.

I remained several days in Seville waiting for a caravan, or company, going on to Badajoz, as the country was said to be infested with banditti, who set the King's cavalry at defiance, being much better mounted. One band of about 60, called themselves 'Ninon's,' or boys; another, 'Compania de la Vapor,' and had committed some most daring acts. Several were taken, and one was brought in while I remained, who, before he surrendered, killed four of the soldiers—he was to be executed by having all his limbs broken. However, finding it was 'to-morrow and to-morrow,' I concluded not to wait for the company, as I had engaged to be in Lisbon at a certain time, and hired a calesha to carry my baggage. This calesha is a sort of carriage, such as I should suppose were in use before the flood, painted red, and covered with flowers and other ornaments; short shafts, so constructed that the horse always draws up hill; the seat and top both so long, and the motion so disagreeable, constantly backwards and forwards like a weaver's lathe, that I found it impossible to ride in it. The horse is covered with plumes and tessels, made of red and other colored cruel, and bells of almost all sizes and shapes—the driver runs along or walks by his side, now and then jumps into the bottom of the calesha, with his legs hanging down, carrying on a constant conversation with his horse—travelling steadily, with but one stop of about 20 minutes, 12 to 13 miles every day, at the rate of about 2½ miles per hour—most tedious—with the shocking gingle of bells. I would sometimes get miles before them, and stop for them to come up.

In this way I travelled alone, maugre the "Ladrones," to Lisbon, where I arrived on the 11th day after leaving Seville, after a solitary though a pleasant and uninterrupted journey. My route was from Seville, through El Ronguills, Santa Olalia, Puebla del Condo, Monasterio, Fuente de Cantos, Los Santos de Maimona, Convente de Monte Virgen, Santa Marta, La Albuhera, (the scene of a great battle between the French and allied armies, &c. near Talavera, likewise the scene of another,) to Badajos, which was stormed by Lord Wellington, and still retains the ruthless marks of the ravages of war. From thence I entered Portugal at Elvas, a strong fortified city, having its scite on two hills, containing about 20,000 inhabitants, and commanding a delightful view of an undulating country, rich with cultivation, and groves of olive and cork trees—presenting a contrast greatly in favor of Portugal, to the opposite shore of the Guadiana, in Spain, at which point, a tree, or cultivation is scarcely visible—no enclosure, no apparent distinction of property—all wild and dreary—here and there a flock of sheep, or hogs, scattered about, with their guard (dressed in his sheep skin) and his dogs around him. From Elvas I went to Estremoz, another large fortified city; from thence, the next day's journey, to Arragolos; next, through Montemor de Novo to Vendanovos, where, for the first time, I got a bed, free in some measure from dolgas, or fleas. In this place, John V. built a palace of immense size, through ostentation, to accomodate himself, his consort, and their long train of attendants, for one night, when bringing he from Spain, where he had espoused her. From this place I proceeded through Peniche, &c. to Aldea Galega, a large place situated on a bay or creek of the Tagus, opposite, and about 16 miles from Lisbon—from thence I embarked, and arrived in Lisbon next morning."

From the Correspondent of the Democratic Press.

St. Thomas, Sept. 12, 1818.

"Admiral Brion with his fleet, and Bermudas with his army, have lately taken La Gueria, and with concentrated forces are about to march along the coast to attack Cumana.

"Bermudas is at Cariaco, between Corupano and Cumana, about 5 Spanish leagues distant from the latter place, which he will attack as soon as Brion is ready to co-operate from the sea side. This news has been communicated to me by persons on whom some reliance can be placed. At the same time Morillo is attacked on all sides in the interior, so that at a time when the royalists thought to rest and prepare for the next campaign, they are notwithstanding the valleys are under water, attacked in their very fortresses. This vigorous and bold conduct on the side of the Patriots, is said to be solely owing to their chiefs having come to a good understanding with one another, and see, at last the necessity of a perfect union to which may be added the considerable supplies in arms and ammunition which they have lately received from England.

"An officer in the patriot army writes from Augusta on the 10th of last month, "That Marino, who hitherto had acted independent of Bolivar and others, had acknowledged Bolivar as Chief of the Republic, as all the other Patriot generals had done before, and, that he had joined heartily in the general plan of attack with his 1500 well disciplined troops. Paiz is at Fernandez d'Apure, with 2000 men, amongst them 300 English cavalry. Peres is now in the plains of Varinas with 2000 men. Sarassa with about 2000 men chiefly cavalry, in the plains of Caraccas, who are every where harassing the Spaniards, notwithstanding the inundations. Prisoners are brought in here daily, and if the present plan is followed up, the royal army will soon be destroyed. Bermudas is to act with Brion on the sea coast, and Bolivar is collecting here, and in the plains called "Los Missiones," an army of about 3000 men, which is organizing under General Anzuati. A great number of foreign officers are daily arriving from all parts of the world. Foreigners are in general treated here very bad by every body, (with the exception of the corps under the brave Paiz) but particularly so the English, on account of their arrogant pretensions, and bad conduct. Col. Wilson an English man, has lately been condemned to imprisonment for life, it having been proved that he attempted to persuade Gen. Paiz to separate from Bolivar, he has been sent to the fort at Guyana."*

"If all these accounts are true, I have very little doubt, that if the Patriot chiefs remain united, Venezuela will be cleared of the Royalists in the course of the next campaign unless they should receive strong reinforcements from old Spain, which, however, is not likely. I understand there is a proclamation in town made by Bolivar as Chief of the Republic, dated 15th Aug. in which he promises victory &c. and calls on all Patriots for a cordial co-operation, particularly on the people of Grenada, which he intends to attack. May it please the Almighty soon to stop the horrible bloodshed in these unfortunate provinces.

"A few days ago arrived here, Captain Brown, of the schr Eliza of New-York; this schooner was bound from here to Rio de la Hatch or St. Martha. Near the coast she was overhauled by a Royal Spanish Privateer, commissioned by the Governor of Rio de la Hatcha, who wantonly fired into her after having taken in all sail. While the captain was in the boat, going from his schooner on board the privateer, they were pouring volleys of musketry at him, and on boarding the Eliza, one of the Spaniards deliberately took aim at, and shot a Mr. Williams, part owner of the Eliza, through the heart. They then plundered the vessel, and carried her into Rio de la Hatcha, where captain Brown made a protest, and got part of the things stolen from him, restored; his schooner was so torn to pieces, that he had to sell her. I understand Capt Brown has made the proper communications to the President of the United States, and I hope such a foul murder will not be suffered to pass, without proper satisfaction being given, and the injury as far as possible redressed to the family of this unfortunate man."

St. Thomas, Sept. 13.

"Since writing the foregoing, we have received accounts here from Hayti, stating that Boyer had totally defeated the army under Christophe, between St. Marks and Port-au-Prince; that Christophe left 4000 men killed on the field, &c.

"I give you this as well as all other news, as I receive it, always taking care to give you only that which is generally credited here."

*Our correspondent subjoins a note, that since the receipt of the letter he has quoted, they had accounts that Col. Wilson has been shot.

To the Public.

SOME time in June, or the first of July, as I came from a barbecue at Slash creek, it being late before I could get across the ferry (it was about 12 o'clock,) and going through town, I passed through Christ Church alley. It was very dark, and I tho't of what the poet Shakspeare said, as follows:

It is now the very witching time of night,
When church yard yawns, and hell itself
Breathes forth destruction to the world:

Just as I tho't of this, I discovered something very white; and as I had heard in former times that the church alley was haunted, I was determined to see what it was. I called to it several times, but got no answer. I set my fiddle against the fence, and searched for some brick bats, which I found and threw them at this ghost. The ghost run from me, and I run after the ghost as if I had a dog to catch it, and I fell over a ——very handsome SETTING CHAIR, which the owner can get by calling to Valuable Land for Sale.

HAVING more land in the tract which I reside than I can farm to advantage, I will expose to public sale, on the 5th day of NOVEMBER next, if fair, if not the next fair day, eight hundred acres, divided into lots of two hundred acres: each lot has seventy acres in wood;—of the cleared land one hundred and fifty acres are in clover, and two hundred in rye and wheat. This land is situated ten miles below Alexandria, and is bounded north and east by Accotink creek, which separates the lower part of it from Jonathan Janney's mill, where the Alexandria price can be had for grain.—It is as fertile as any land in the county, and as susceptible of improvement, by clover and plaster, as any I have seen. Persons wishing to view it will call on the subscriber, living at Cedar Grove, one mile below Janney's mill.

The terms will be one-third of the purchase money in hand, and the balance in two equal annual payments. The sale will take place at 12 o'clock, on the premises.
EDGAR McCARTY.
Fairfax co. Va. October 6

Valuable Property for Sale.

THE subscriber is desirous of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate and the lands of general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—40 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, last spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence.—The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables.—There is on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutricious as the best timothy or clover.—With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow.—it would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it. The subscriber will also sell the greater part of his household furniture, which is new and handsome. For terms of all or any part of the above property, apply to NOBLE T HERBERT, esq. or Clermont for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale this well known and valuable estate, in the vicinity of Alexandria, being distant not more than three miles, commanding a view of the town and of the valley through which the Cameron creek meanders. The domain consists of 360 acres, a large portion of which is bottom land, highly susceptible of improvement; its buildings consist of a large dwelling house containing 12 comfortable apartments and 8 fire places, and of such other buildings as are necessary for the accommodation of a farmer. This estate will be sold altogether or divided to suit purchasers.

One third of the purchase money will be required in hand, and the remainder in equal payments of 9 and 18 months.
CHARLES I. LOVE.
Clermont, near Alex'a, sep 17 thmtf

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—It is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pensylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary out-house, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensils and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

September 4 GEORGE MASON.

Valuable Property for Sale.

I WILL sell my property on King, West and Cameron streets, being one acre, or half a square, in fee simple, fronting one hundred and twenty three feet five inches on King street, the same on Cameron street, and three hundred and fifty three feet and two inches on West street. There are erected on said premises, an excellent two story brick dwelling house on West street, with smoke house, stable, carriage house, and every convenience suitable for the accommodation of a respectable family. A large two story brick warehouse, corner of King and West streets, now in the occupation of Thomas Swann, Jr. and another brick warehouse, with dwelling attached, fronting on King street, occupied by George Kincaid. These warehouses are built of the best materials, not surpassed by any in town.—Two brick dwelling houses, fronting on King street, with sufficient room for the erection of other buildings, having every accommodation for families—and a large lot on West and Cameron streets, sufficiently large for the erection of fifteen respectable tenements.

This is a most desirable property for any man of fortune who wishes to improve it, or receive a good interest for his money, and offers advantages equal if not superior to any situation in the town of Alexandria.

Likewise, two frame dwelling houses, fronting on King street, adjoining the warehouse occupied by George Kincaid. This property is subject to a small ground rent of thirty dollars and forty one cents per annum.

Also, a lot of ground, in fee simple, containing ten and three quarter acres, two miles from town, on the old Leesburg road, near the property of Wm. Robinson, Esq.

This lot is beautifully situated, having a fine view of Alexandria and of the Potomac—is well taken with clover, and is capable of the highest improvement.

The above property will be sold together, or in part, and a liberal credit given to suit purchasers. JAMES SANDERSON.

Auction & Commission Store.

NATHL. P. BIXBY & CO. respectfully inform their friends and the public generally, that they have taken that large and commodious store formerly occupied by the late Mr. Thomas Robinson, nearly opposite the Union Bank, Bridge-st. where they will transact all kinds of business in the Auction and Commission line; and as they are determined to give their exclusive attention to that business alone, those gentlemen who are disposed to employ them, have the best guarantee that they will be fairly dealt by. They flatter themselves that a punctual, diligent, and correct attention, together with their general knowledge of business, will secure to them at least an equal share of public patronage. Their intention is to avoid, as much as possible, retailing goods at auction. They are now prepared to receive goods of every description, to sell at public or private sale, and will attend to sales of property at any place within the town.

Gone to the Southward or Westward,

A YELLOW WOMAN, called Celia Detcher, in the 23d year of her age, about 5 feet 2 or 3 inches high—marks like moles on the right side of her face, which, with several letters on her left arm, were made with india ink. She is about four months gone in a state of pregnancy—followed her husband, Jim Clark, a yellow man, who was purchased from this place and taken away in company with a large number of slaves, about two week ago, by a man of the name of Basset. It is supposed they have gone to the westward: Celia was born free, and had with her a notarial certificate of her freedom, and description of her person. Her mother, the subscriber, is much afflicted by her manner of going away, and desires that any humane people who may chance to meet with her, will persuade her to return, being apprehensive that when she gets into a strange country, where she will be unknown and out of the reach of her friends and those who would be likely to protect her, attempts may be made by some avaricious and unprincipled persons, to deprive her of her liberty, and sell her for a slave. Should any such attempts be made, fifty dollars reward will be paid to any person who will communicate such information as shall lead to the conviction of the offenders, and the recovery of the woman.

PROPOSALS,

By Gideon Fairman, John Binns and Charles S. Parker,

TO PUBLISH

A Splendid Edition of Washington's Farewell Address.

To the People of the United States.

THE world has seen enough of warriors and of Heroes—enough of Statesmen—of men who have guided Armies in the field, or dictated as Sages in the Cabinet, for the exclusive purpose of Ambition. History from its earliest page to the present day, has offered to our contemplation, only ONE WASHINGTON, but ONE MAN, whose dangers in war, and labors in in peace, were undertaken and supported with a single eye, to the benefit of his country; whose wonderful and honorable success, was the plain result of wisdom in design, and valour in execution; whom danger never appalled, nor defeat depressed; who, persevering in the justice of his cause, wooed Victory till he won her; who coveted no reward but the well earned approbation of those whose interest he lived to promote: who renounced all public honors, when they ceased to be the necessary instruments of good to the people, whose gratitude conferred them: who superior to all Monarchs, was content to be called the American Citizen. His career of glory through life was unstained by crime; and his death was felt as a loss by every individual of that community, whose political existence was the fruit of his exertions.

THE FAREWELL ADDRESS of General Washington is the condensed result of long experienced, matured reflection and strong anxiety for the permanent prosperity of his country. His advice concerning the great importance of maintainingindissolubly the federal Union: the danger of indulging too much in party feelings:—the necessity of supporting public credit at home:—of maintaining public faith in all our transactions with foreign nations: of encouraging foreign intercourse free from foreign attachments:—are so many lessons of prudence which we should do well to bear in constant remembrance. Why therefore should not his legacy of wisdom and affection, be so published, as to admit of being constantly before our eyes? An ornament to our apartments, while it serves as a memento to guide our public feelings, and to manifest that the author lives in our memories?

To make it such, is the aim of the proposed Edition.

The Publishers are determined that the Address shall be printed on paper of the same quality and size as the splendid edition of the Declaration of Independence now engraving, & shall in all respects be a companion worthy that great State paper.

As errors are known from various causes to find their way into the most important writings, the publishers feel it their duty, not only to satisfy themselves, but to satisfy the public, of the authenticity of the copy from which this splendid Edition of the Farewell Address shall be published.

MR. GEORGE BRIDPORT will complete the Design; of which the following is an outline:—The introductory part of the Address, in highly finished ornamental penmanship, shall form the upper part;—the other parts of the plate, shall be appropriate ornaments;—in the centre below shall be engraved, from an historical design for this publication by Mr. Sully the Surrender of the British Army at York-town, October 19, 1781.

The Address itself shall be printed with type of a peculiar and appropriate character, designed for this purpose by Mr. Fairman, and to be cut and cast by our best artists. No more of the type shall be cast than will be necessary to execute this Address: & when it shall be compleated, the type and the matrices in which it was cast shall be utterly destroyed; so that no other work shall ever be executed by the same letter which shall have printed the "FAREWELL ADDRESS" of him who lived and died, first in War; first in Peace, and first in the hearts of his Countrymen.

The paper, of the first quality, 36 by 26 inches, will be made by Mr. Amies. The INK shall be carefully prepared, and of the best materials.

The signature of General Washington from which it is proposed to execute a fac simile for this publication, is that which he affixed to the Constitution of the United States, when he signed it as President of the Convention in which it was framed; Thus associating and concentrating some of the greatest events in the life of this great man and in the history of his Country.

The ornamental writing will be designed and executed in the very best manner; the ornamental parts of the design and vignette, will be engraved by G. FAIRMAN: and the Typographical part executed by John Binns. They will take especial care of the execution of their several duties in this respect, and they will call to their aid, all that liberality, zeal and industry can command from the Sciences and Arts, so as to make the "Farewell Address" no mean specimen of the state of the Fine Arts in the United States.

As much progress has already been made in designing and procuring materials for this splended edition of Gen. Washington's "Farewell Address," it is expected it will be ready for delivery, with the Splended Edition of the Declaration of Independence, in the month of December next. That the public may have a more perfect view of the design and style of execution, than can be given in a proposal, of this Tribute to the memory of him who was "a Conqueror for the Freedom of his Country! A "Legislator for its Security! A Magistrate for its Happiness," it is not intended to solicit any Subscriptions until the Ornamental parts of the plate shall be executed. It will then be submitted for public inspection and public patronage, at five dollars a Copy, payable on the delivery of the Engraving. Philadelphia, July 31.
